

When I Look Into the Mirror and See You: Women, Terror, and Resistance

By Margaret Randall

Rutgers University Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 232 pages. Dimensions: 8.9in. x 6.4in. x 0.6in. Randall, feminist authorbiographer of Latin American revolutionary women, documents the extraordinary stories of Nora Mizelem Rivera and Maria Suarez Toro, disappeared by the Honduran military in 1982, and released. They are an eye-opening exception to the tragic numbers of permanently disappeared Latin Americans. The book breaks the silences surrounding this event: first, the silences around Honduras largely unexplored counterinsurgent past; second, the silencing by Central Americas Left of womens progressive movements; and finally, the abusive silencing by these movements when the two denounced the gendered nature of their abductions. . . . Highly recommended. -Choice This powerfully written book allows us to feel deeply the particular as well as the universal situation of women, their ways of survival and refusal to lose their vision of economic and social justice. An important contribution to the emerging field of women and human rights, and the intricate relations established between power and gender. -Margorie Agosn, editor of A Map of Hope: Womens Writing on Human Rights, An International Literary Anthology, and Women, Gender, and Human Rights: A Global Perspective In the early 1980s, in the midst of Central..
