In the view of human nature we have here taken, of its end and aim, there is everything that is consolatory to the philanthropist, and that has a tendency to expand our hearts in love and confidence towards our Creator. Evil has its origin in ignorance, and the object of pain is to determine our choice to that which is good--from that which would injure, to that which would benefit ourselves and others. Truth then we seek, truth we desire, as the great antagonist of all evil, by which only we can learn the consequences of our actions and acquire power over our own happiness. Falsehood only we fear, and that which, acting upon ignorance and superstition, shall tend to perpetuate its dominion. Hence the doctrine of Philosophical Necessity, or the Law of Consequences, becomes of the highest importance, --teaching as it does, that...
